Japanese Warn of New Action as Negotiations Break Down and Troop Withdrawals Halt

By A. T. REEVE

PHILADELPHIA, July 24.—Japan's army leaders are reported to have issued a statement today in which they warned of new action if negotiations between the Japanese and Chinese governments fail.

Insurgents Beg to

As the insurgents recently dug in, the Loyalists prepared for a counterattack, which was carried out in the afternoon by the Loyalist division, supported by tanks and artillery and aided by the air force.

Threats to Escalate

The Japanese ultimatum said it was a "last offer" and that if it was not accepted, the Japanese would be forced to take further action.

First Raid Reported

The first raid apparently was made without the use of any government forces. It appears, in fact, to have been a deliberate attack on the rebels, since no more than 200 men, but 2000 weapons, were taken away.
